

What is claimed is:

1. A vehicle slip stop device mounted on a vehicle for scattering a slip stop material near contact portion of tires on the ground, characterized in that the slip stop material is stored in a cartridge having at least one opening which is closed by a film, and a pipe for discharging the slip stop material stored in the container under a positive or negative pressure is inserted into said cartridge through said film.

2. The vehicle slip stop device as claimed in claim 1 wherein the slip stop material stored in said cartridge is discharged under a positive pressure, and said pipe comprises a pipe for supplying the positive pressure and a pipe for discharging said slip stop material.